DETAILED ACTION

1. Formal Matters

A. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-3, 14, 15, 36-46, drawn to an agent and a kit comprising the agent.

Group II, claims 4-13, 16-35, drawn to a method of screening for a compound which stimulates, e.g., feeding.

Group III, claims 47-52, drawn to a method of screening for a compound in vivo.

B. The inventions listed as Groups I-III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The special technical feature of claims 1 (Group I) is a feed-stimulating agent comprising relaxin-3, which is anticipated by Matsumoto et al. (Gene 2000) Matsumoto teach SALPR, which is defined in the instant specification as relaxin-3. Since claim 1 only requires relaxin-3, the claims are anticipated. Case law has established that a compound and all of its properties are inseparable, as are its processes and yields (In re Papesch, 315 F.2d 381, 137 USPQ 43 (CCPA 1963)). Therefore, Group I lacks novelty or inventive step and does not make a contribution over the prior art. A copy of Matsumoto is not provided herewith since a copy has been provided by Applicants with the IDS filed 10/13/06.

C. The inventions listed as Groups I-VI do not meet the requirements for Unity of Invention or the following reasons:

Groups II and III are drawn to methods different in design and performance, and which do not share the same or a corresponding special technical feature which define the contribution of each invention. The methods of Groups II-III do not share a corresponding special technical feature because the methods are practiced with materially different process steps for materially different purposes and each method requires different starting materials, process steps and goals. Since these special technical features are not shared by each process, and since the common features do not establish an advance over the prior art, the inventions of Groups II-III do not form a single inventive concept within the meaning of Rule 13.2.

The invention of Group I is separate and distinct from the invention of Groups II and III because the invention of Group I may be used in other methods than those of Group II and III, such as in treatment. Furthermore, the product of Group I is not required by the methods of Groups II and III.
